DEBATE ON THE TARIFF BILL COMMENCED.

Mr. Voorhees Opens Up with a General Argument Against the Measure.

The Sugar and Tin Plate Schedules Particularly Criticized - The Sugar Bounty an Enormous Tax.

A Plea for the Farmer, Who Foots the Bill -Both Houses Adjourn Out of Respect for the Late Representative Walker-New Postoffices in the West-Capital Notes.

Washington, July 21.—The select coommittee on relations with Canada was authorized to continue its investigation during the coming recess and during the next

The bill authorizing the construction of a pontoon bridge across the Mississippi fiver at Quincy, III., was passed. The bill to amend the act of June 22, 1874, for relief of settlers on railroad lands was reported and placed on the calendar. On a vote of 30 years to 23 mays the senate proceeded to consider of the house bill to transfer the revenue marine service from the treasury to the navy department.

Mr. Voorhees opposed the cill, which he characterized as a financial monster, every claw and tooth of which had been carefully inspected in the lobbies and found to be sound and reliable. It was only in an im-pure political and moral atmosphere, gen-eraled by a corrupt monopoly of wealth that a financial measure like the one now pending would dare to show the hard out-pending would dare to show the hard out-lines of its guilty face, much less would it expect to be treated with respect, spoken well of and pressed as a law.

Passing to a criticism of the details of the bill Mr. Voorhoes spoke of it as an as-tonished fact that in the fourteen sched-ules of duttable articles the only reduc-tions made were in the schedule relating to sugar and molasses (which in the light. tions made were in the schedule relating to sugar and molasses (which in the light of the proposed bounty to sugar planters, was no reduction at all) and in the section relating to wines, sparits and other beaverages. In every one of the twelve schedules, the tariff taxes had been increased, the regard to woolen goods that increase amounted to $15,000,000 a year. There was no pretension, Mr. Voorhees said, that the increase was not on for the said, that the increase was put on for the rake of revenue. It was simply an instance of protection run mad and developed into a Chinese wall of prohibition.

Mr. Voorbees reterred to the recent Stanley wedding in London, attended by members of the royal family and by representahers of the royal family and by representa-tives of the highest aristocracy of England and to the wedding presents of fabulous price showered upon the here of the dark it in the diamond fields of Airica? Had he toiled from day to day, eccoomized and saved the earnings of a lifetime to buy it? Nothing of all that. The farmers of the United States had paid for that diamond ten thousand times over in the last twenty years by paying an average duty of over 28 per cent on every article of iron and steel that they used and by paying increased rates of radioad freight made necessary by the high duties on steel and from rails and rolling stock. For the farmer, at last, paid for all. If the pending bill became a law, they would have an increase of duty to pay on iron and steel from 38.24 per cent to 51.75 per cent.

Mr. Voorbees passed on to the discussion of the proposed increase of 120 per Mr. Voorhees passed on to the discussion of the proposed increase of 129 per cent on tin plate, in order to protect an infinit industry, as yet unborn, and in order to give cusployment to 24,000 working men now idle. It would be far cheaper, he said for the country to pay 24,000 idle men their average wages than to tax every square of tin roof, every dinner pail, teapot and milk can, simply to build up half a dozen millionaires and to enable them to give coaching parties to protection leaders and to fund libraries from the savings of a 15 per cent reduction of the wages of their working men. Tin plate, he said, had the first right to be on the free list and he would at the proper time move to put it there. There was no manufacturer in the country and therefore nothing to protect even if protection were right. It was a material in universal use, a common want with laboring people and it ought therefore pay no tax. Might be a common want with laboring people and it ought therefore pay no tax. Might he not, with propriety, in leaving the tin plate schedule call on all the men and women who use tin pans, pails, cups, strainers, teapots, coffcepots, washbasins, cooking pans, piepans, caus for fruits and vegetables and tin for rooting their houses, to Join in pronouncing an anothema against the bill? The doctrine of a high protective tariff was here, he said, carried to its full limit and displayed without further attempt at disguise; all its frightful capabilities for evil. It might well exclaim with the false prophet of Khorassan, when he unveiled his hidof Khorassan, when he unveiled his hid-cons face to his ignorant worshipers: "Here, judge if hell, with all its powers to dams,

Can add one curse to the vile thing I am."
As he believed in the justice of God, he believed in the overthrow of such a system of government. He believed that the present wicked, criminal system of tariff protection in this country was racing to swift destruction. It was designed soon to encounter the stern spirft of retributive justice and to feel the desolation which it had inflicted on others. He rejoiced that there was a spirit in the land which would not down at the bidding of speculators. Whether that spirit was of his party or of the opposition, or of an alliance embracing honest people of both parties, it was most welcome to him and his prayer was that it would have a giant's strength in its arm so as to strike down the mail-clad robbers who were riding over wicked criminal system of tariff pro the mail-clad robbers who were riding over and trampling down the laboring poor.
The title of the bill was "An act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports and for other purposes," the only truth in the title being "for other purposes" than those declared. With sugar on the free list, an annual revenue of $50,000,000 was abolished, but other schedules increase But if duties to the amount of $65,000,000. the bounty of 2 cents a pound on the sugar produced in the United States should result (as its friends urged it would) in the production of all the sugar consumed here, then according to the last statistics the American people would fine themselves paying an annual sugar tax of 86,152,800 required by the government fish natcheries at Neosho, Mo. $4,000.

RECEIVER OF THE PARK NATIONAL Washington, July 21.—The comptroller American people would fine themselves paying an annual sugar tax of $6,152,800 under the masquerading, fraudulent process of so called five sugar, in alliance with high protection and gross subsidy. He went on to say that all the internal revenue taxes on manufacturers, brokers and dealers, bank checks and incomes had been swept away, while duties on tracechains, tin buckets, flaunce shirts and the like had a manifold growth. According to the present rate of taxation, on farms and in workshops, the war was still raging aud costing more than before. Who, he asked, would dare stand before the country and say that the party so long in control of the government had dealt fairly with the people on that subject? In conclusion he declared that the battle for liberty, justice and equality would be fought out in every part of the field, but that at no point was victory more essential than where floated the banner of tariff reform.

At the close of the speech Mr. Cockrell offered resolutions (which were agreed to expressing the senate's regret at the announcement of the death of Representative Walker, of Missouri, and for the appointment of a committee of three senators to attend the funeral.

St. Louis, Mo., July 21.—A special to the Globe Democrat from Topeka says: In their great anxiety to suppress the sale of "original packages" in this city, the county officers have resorted to a system of manufacturing evidence that is not approved by many who are firm believers in the principles of prohibition. Affidavits were presented in court showing that the sheriff and county attorney of this county have been employing boys to make purchases of liquors, as such sales by the package dealers bring the dealers within the jurisdiction of the state laws. How far this plan has been pursued is not definitely known. B. S. Kershner swears that he was furnished money by the sheriff to give to minors to purchase swears that he was infinished and, by the sheriff to give to minors to purchase liquors with, and was told to select boys of about 16 years of age. He was furnished with $25.50 for this purpose at different times and was himself paid $25 for his work. COWARDLY ASSASSING.

A Negro Called to His Door and Shot

Down Pants. Tex., July 21.-Parties who ca

here today brought information of what will prove to be a brutal and cowardly as-assimation which took, place Saturday morning about twenty miles southeast of morning about twenty miles southeast of here in the Red river country. It seems about 2 o'clock in the morning a party supposed to contain six or seven men went to the house of Andy Young, a hard-working negro living on the farm of Nathan Grant, and called him up. When he came to the door a volley from Winchesters, shedguns and pistels was fired into him. It is thought about twenty-five shots were fired in all and every one took effect. Two Winchesters to his ears and cutting his bead in front of his cars and cutting his tongue in two. His body, legs and arms were filled with buillets. Yet strange to say he was alive last night and conscious but it was not regarded as possible that he could live. It is thought the offices have a clue. No reson is known for the shooting except that the negro had a difficulty with some with boys. He was a very resolute but not a quarrelsome man.

A COUNTY ATTORNEY IN TROUBLE. A COUNTY ATTORNEY IN TROUBLE.
TOPEKA, Kan., July 12.—J. M. Sanders, county attorney of Wallace county, was before the supreme court today on a warrant charging him with contempt in refusing to turn over to the proper authorities at Sharon Springs the records of Wallace County on July 1. The retention of the records grew out of the controversy between Sharon Springs and the town of Wallace over the county seat matters.
The warrant also applied to A. H. Bentley, county commissioner. Sanders had county The warrant also applied to A. H. Bentley county commissioner. Sanders had county warrants to the amount of $108, which the county commissioner claim to be fraudulent and void, but Sanders demanded that they should be funded, and that he should be given county bonds to that amount before he would give the records up. After hearing the evidence today the court made an order fining Sanders $200 and Bentley $150 and cost, and directing that they be imprisoned in the Wallace county jail until flaes and costs are paid and the records delivered. and the records delivered.
